Accreditation Statement

The U.S. Army Medical Command is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Credit Designation

The U.S. Army Medical Command designates this educational activity for a maximum of 4 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)TM. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Statement of Need/Gap Analysis

The purpose of this CME activity is to address the identified gap(s):

- * 1) Medical providers must be able to differentiate signs and symptoms of chemical nerve agents.
- * 2) Medical providers must be able to supervise and delegate resources during the patient decontamination process.
- * 3) Medical providers must be able to identify and appropriately treat patients exposed to chemical nerve agents based on diagnosis.

Learning Objectives

1. Understand basic principles of neurotransmission.
2. Know details of the cholinergic crisis and understand immediate & delayed presentations of nerve agents.
3. Know mechanisms and clinical aspects of currently licensed nerve agent antidotes.
4. Be familiar with likely advances in nerve agent therapy in the near future.

Intended Audience

The course is designed for Medical Corps and Nurse Corps officers, physician assistants, Medical Service Corps officers in specialties 67B, C, or E, and other selected medical professionals. Lectures, case studies, and interactive modules prepare graduates to effectively manage casualties exposed to chemical nerve agents.

Disclosure of Faculty Relationships
