Accreditation Statement

The U.S. Army Medical Command is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Credit Designation

The U.S. Army Medical Command designates this educational activity for a maximum of 12 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)<sup>TM</sup>. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Statement of Need/Gap Analysis

The purpose of this CME activity is to address the identified gap(s):

- * 1) Medical providers must be able to detect chemical agents.
- * 2) Medical providers must be able to supervise the establishment of patient collection and triage chemical casualties into four different categories: immediate, delayed, minimal, and expectant.
- * 3) Medical providers must be able to supervise ambulatory and litter patient decontamination areas based on safety and logistical support.
- * 4) Medical providers must be able to identify and appropriately treat patients exposed to chemical agents based on diagnosis.

Learning Objectives

1. Select appropriate personnel, equipment, site, and operations order necessary to establish a patient decontamination site.
2. Position the equipment and personnel required to conduct patient decontamination site layout.
3. Process casualties for further care, to include triage, emergency treatment, and decontamination of contaminated casualties.
4. Disestablish the PDS while avoiding spread of contamination of patient.

Intended Audience

The course is designed for Medical Corps and Nurse Corps officers, physician assistants, Medical Service Corps officers in specialties 67B, C, or E, and other selected medical professionals. Lectures, case studies, and interactive modules prepare graduates to effectively manage casualties exposed to chemical vesicant agents.
